The Yorkshire Coast is a hugely popular destination. With the benefit of a stunning coastline and a rugged countryside, its offer is wide ranging for locals and tourists alike. Retail, food and drink and a developing cultural and events calendar, and all year round holidays mean that it is one of the UK's foremost destinations.

Destination BIDs are still a relatively new concept to the UK with the prime aim to give the business community greater control in improving their place and delivering the BID programme.

In essence, you will be the champion for the BID and the front face of the initiative.

You will be self-motivated, task orientated with a passion to succeed, have excellent interpersonal and communication skills, tact and diplomacy, project management experience. You will need to juggle a variety of tasks and work well under pressure. The post will be demanding but varied and is not a job for the fainthearted.

The BID Project Administrator will assist in the above ensuring that all organizational, administration and support functions are in place in a demanding and fast paced environment.

For both posts a flexible attitude to working hours is required. If successful, there is the opportunity to develop your career in this new and expanding field. An excellent support network will be available as well.
